

NORTHERN TRIBUNE.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1885.

THE CITY.

A. P. Newton started yesterday for Detroit on business.

We would call attention to Dr. D. W. Berdan's card, in the advertising columns.

What is the use of hanging out your sign if you do not advertise and let people know what you have to sell.

E. O. Penney left for Detroit last Monday to attend the Masonic grand lodge and also to purchase new goods.

Carkin, Stiekney & Cram are building four dump scows at Bay City with eight pockets each for next season's work.

Michael Engelbrecht has taken a contract to furnish St. Mary's church and parochial school with 100 cords of wood.

Last Monday afternoon the first report of a widow needing relief was made to the Ladies Relief Society. This was a case of a widow with two children.

There is a lot of freight being brought in by rail this winter, the warehouse at the station being pretty well filled after the arrival of each up freight train.

Again it is rumored that Senator Conger is about to resign and again Senator Conger denies the story, and says it is a lie manufactured out of whole cloth.

The House committee has agreed to report in favor of a bill to reduce newspaper postage from two cents to one cent per pound when sent by publishers to bona fide subscribers.

The newspapers are giving Father Abbott credit for inventing that stove for burning saw dust. It is Foster Abbott, but nevertheless he is both a father and grand-father.

Wm. Hess is about completing a new steel boiler for the tug Pioneer, at Sault Ste. Marie, owned by L. P. Trempe. It is a fine specimen of boiler work and fully sustains Mr. Hess' reputation for doing good work.

Henry Erratt and J. G. Spiller spent two or three days last week trying to trap wolves, but did not get as much as even a sight of a track. Henry says they got lots of exercise and three nights of very cold slumber.

February will come within one hour and fifty minutes of being a month with out a full moon. The moon fulfils this month-to-morrow forenoon at 10:29 and the next fulfils the last day of February at 10:10 in the evening.

The opening of Wertheimer Bros. new clothing store took place on Saturday last and was largely attended. The store presents a handsome appearance and a fine stock of goods is displayed. They have a new advertisement in this issue.

According to the school census for the year 1884, as compiled in the office of superintendent of public instruction, the number of school children in the state between the ages of 5 and 20 years is 577,044 against 567,050 for the year 1883.

State Senator Henry has introduced a bill providing for the rendering of a verdict by a less number of jurors than 12 in the circuit court or less than 6 in a justice court. We think this a move in the right direction. How often it is the case that one stubborn juror causes a disagreement.

Dynamiters attempted to blow up the House of Parliament in London, England, last Saturday afternoon. Considerable damage was done, and a number of persons seriously injured. The friends of Ireland by countenancing such means are injuring their cause and arousing the indignation of civilized people the world over.

The board of supervising inspectors of steam vessels in session at Washington have adopted a rule providing that where steamers are furnished with approved life saving mattresses, such mattresses may be used in lieu of life preservers in the proportion of one person for a single mattress and two persons for a double mattress, thus saving steamboat owners the expense of purchasing life preservers in proportion as their steamers are fitted out with life-saving mattresses.

Parties holding orders issued for building of the Spooner bridge over the Cheboygan river, complain that the township of Grant made no provision for raising money to pay its share of the expense. The bridge was built jointly by the towns of Grant and Iverness, each to pay half the cost. The latter has made provision for its half. The bridge is of more benefit to the people of Grant than to those residing in Iverness and it would seem that under the circumstances that Grant should be equally as prompt as the other town. It looks as if someone had been neglectful of their duty.

The river is frozen over as far as First street.

To-night.—Taffy Race at the rink. Good music.

Commercial job printing a specialty at the TRIBUNE job office.

The ice crop continues to be housed, and magnificent ice it is.

The new bell on the St. Mary's Catholic school building has an excellent tone.

Notwithstanding the cold weather, the circuit court was well attended this week.

M. W. Kling, township treasurer of Tuscarora, reports taxes in that town being paid very slowly.

Marshal Lynn settled with J. E. Cueny, village treasurer, last Friday and accounted for the money collected for taxes.

John Becker left on the train yesterday morning for the far west to start a saloon where beer sells for 15 cents per glass.

Two cars are being loaded with hay to-day for shipment down the road, one by Smith & Baker, and the other by Jared Dingman.

According to the Traverse City Herald Hannah, Lay & Co. of that place paid a tax in 1884 averaging $52.93 per day for the entire year.

County Clerk Hunt informs us that most of the townships have filed notice with him of an extension of the time for payment of taxes.

The snow and extreme cold was almost too much for the up train Monday night, and it did not arrive until after 3 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Remember the musical at the residence of Mrs. Rollo Friday evening of next week. A fine programme may be expected, as the best local talent participate.

Major Frank Howard has the cast filled for the production of the drama of "Six degrees of crime" and the play is being rehearsed. He expects to present it within two weeks.

M. W. Newkirk, former editor and publisher of the defunct Elmira Gazette, spent two or three days in Cheboygan last week and the TRIBUNE was favored with several pleasant calls.

The bids for wood for fractional district No. 3, town of Inverness, were opened last Monday. There were only three bids presented. The proposals were for body maple, two feet in length. Michael Guolin's bid was $1.25 per cord, and Martin Eaglebrecht and Michael Shields $1.20 per cord.

The Otsego County Herald, in speaking of Rev. A. W. Westgate's visit to that place a week ago last Sunday, says: "Rev. A. W. Westgate, of Cheboygan, preached two able sermons at the Congregational church last Sunday to good audiences. The reverend gentleman is affable in manners, polished in speech, and mighty in expounding the Scriptures."

John Reid is great at concocting wolf stories. He tells them just as if every word was true, and in a manner that makes a fellow's hair stand on end at the hair bread'h escapes. His latest story is laid in the Black Lake section, wolves numerous and ravenous, man up a tree, dare not come down, sure death from freezing if he remained up, discovered just in time and rescued by his neighbors.

The Northwestern Lumberman in speaking of a projected railroad from Big Rapids to Alpena, and up the Huron shore through Presque Isle county and Rogers City to Cheboygan says: "No railroad route that could be marked out in Michigan would be so original, and traverse such a long stretch of unoccupied territory. It would be a great lumber line, both for soft and hard woods, and point toward Chicago and the great prairie regions, the best market for forest products in the world. It seems as if there could be no more promising field in the lower peninsula for new railroad enterprises."

"The local paper," says Whitelaw Reid "is the best paper in the world. All the city papers cannot supply the place of the home paper. No other contains the marriages and deaths, to say nothing of divorces and births. No other paper gives the time for the next ball, picnic or political meeting; no other publishes the 'roll of honor' for the public schools; no other discusses the affairs of the town and county, or gives in detail the local news, which can be obtained from no other source. Everybody reads it, and this is why the local paper is the best read in the world, and the best advertising medium for its circulation extant."

NORTHERN TRIBUNE CORRESPONDENCE.

January 26th, 1885.

To the Editor NORTHERN TRIBUNE.

At camp No. 6, of Duncan City situated on Milliken Creek, there is one of the finest logging roads in northern Michigan. Its length is four miles, the greater part of which is down grade. The loads hauled on this road is something enormous from 50 to 60 logs and sometimes as high as 65. There are 1,000,000 feet of logs already in the river, and 1,000,000 more on skids which is all they expect to put in this winter. Walter Elliot is foreman of this camp and a jolly wholesome fellow he is, one of the kind you don't meet every day. Walter is a little anxious for spring when he can have another spin on the blue waters around Duncan in his boat with his fair one in the stern. I suppose its all right but I don't understand. You know how it is yourself.

CALL AGAIN.

HEBRON.

HEBRON, January 27.

EDITOR TRIBUNE:—How are you enjoying the "open winter?"

Our neighbors are nearly all at work in the woods getting out wood, cedar and logs. Mr. Alex Campbell and Mr. Penke had quite a scare yesterday. They were sawing down a large hemlock, and when the tree was cut about two-thirds off, the wind freshening, it split up about thirty feet, then broke and run, or kicked back on the silver, the top striking another tree causing it to slew around. It was hurrying times with both men for a few seconds, dodging and scrambling out of the way, but fortunately they both escaped injury, and only have to regret the loss of their saw, which was broken in three pieces.

We have had no school since last Thursday, Mr. Mason our teacher being confined to his boarding place with an attack of rheumatism.
